

Forestry England

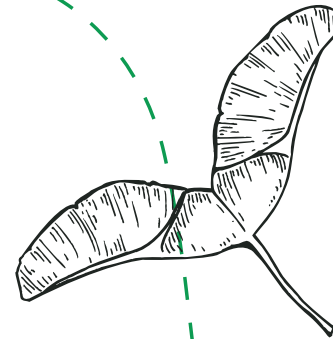

Cann Wood

Cann Wood is managed by Forestry England to grow sustainable timber, provide homes for wildlife, and create spaces for you to enjoy.

Much of Cann Wood is classified as ancient woodland. This means it has existed since at least 1600AD. We are managing the forest to support its important native character.

Forestry England is the largest supplier of sustainable timber in England. We supply British timber mills and help to reduce the amount of wood we import.

Trees are a natural and replaceable raw material which have many uses in everyday life. Trees also remove carbon dioxide from the atmosphere, locking it up in timber products for as long as they are being used. With careful planning and management, Cann Wood will thrive beyond our lifetime for generations to come.
